

Driver Check consent form

What is Driver Check?

Driver Check is a secure internet site set up by the NZ Transport Agency (NZTA). It has been established to allow companies to check that only appropriately licensed drivers are driving their company vehicles.

What information can Driver Check tell the user?

Driver Check allows the user (eg your employer) to access the following information about your driver licence:

- the licence classes you hold, eg a class 4 licence to drive heavy trucks
- the licence endorsements you hold, eg a D endorsement to carry dangerous goods
- the conditions on your licence, eg the requirement to wear correcting lenses when driving
- the status of your licence, eg current, expired, suspended, disqualified, revoked or reinstated.

The NZTA will send an automatic notification to the user when any of the above information about your driver licence changes, eg when your licence expires or is suspended.

Licence holder's consent

Driver Check's terms and conditions of use require:

- the user to have the written consent of the licence holder BEFORE accessing their licence record
- the user to retain a copy of that written consent
- the user to supply a copy of that written consent to the NZTA on request
- the user to have the licence holder's permission BEFORE releasing any information obtained via Driver Check to any third party
- the licence holder's written consent on this form.
