LOCAL COMPETITION:

GUIDELINES FOR LOCAL COMPETITION:

ORGANIZATION:

- It is up to the individual college/school regarding which student organization will host the local competition. In nature, this competition will mimic the National Patient Counseling Competition (NPCC) hosted by the American Pharmacists Association (APhA). Many colleges/school may elect to have their chapter for the Academy of Student Pharmacists host this competition; however anyone may host this competition.

ELIGIBILITY:

- Student requirements to participate in this competition:
  - Currently enrolled in a college/school of pharmacy holding appropriate accreditation with ACPE.
  - Student members of IPhA or MPA

STUDENT PARTICIPANT:

- Student participant will role-play a pharmacist dispensing a prescription to a patient/caregiver. Counseling points need to be conveyed to the patient/caregiver in an appropriate and timely manner.
- The state competition drug list is noted at the end of this document. Any of these drugs can be used for your local competition. (It is recommended to use the same drug for all student participants to limit bias and provide objective judging, however not mandatory.)
- Student participants will have the list of drugs in advance before the local competition takes place (included in this document). It is recommended for student participants to review the list and prepare accordingly.
- At the time of the local competition, students will be asked to counsel a patient on a given drug. They will be provided with a prescription and a patient profile. Once receiving this they will have access to drug information resources (hard copies) for five minutes. This time should be used to review the information that is specific to the given patient. Once this time has concluded, the student participant is then asked to call the patient back so the student participant can counsel the patient on the new prescription. This counseling session may last up to 5 minutes, however not to exceed 5 minutes. The student participant may counsel the patient orally, but using written handout information and props may be used. A one minute warning will be given and then the technician will turn off the recorder after the five minute time limit is reached.

- Absolutely no drug literature or scratch paper will be allowed into the area of research after a drug has been identified. However student participants will be allowed to write notes onto the patient profile/prescription and are welcome to use during the competition.

PATIENT:

- Volunteers should be solicited to play the role of the patient. These volunteers may be representatives of local or state pharmacy associations, pharmacists, and faculty or staff members of your college/school.
- The patient should play a role that the student participant must work to overcome a communication obstacle, but not make this interaction impossible (example: angry, worried, distrustful, hearing impaired, etc).
- During this interaction it may be difficult to maintain a consistent approach from one participant to another, but is important to discuss with patients the expected delivery to ensure as much objectivity as possible.
- When one minute remains in the counseling session, a warning is given. After the scenario is concluded or the counseling session exceeds 5 minutes, the recording should be stopped.
- If the student participant counsels for longer than 5 minutes, only the first 5 minutes will be evaluated.

JUDGES:

- Judges for the competition are recommended to be practicing pharmacists who have a reputation for a patient-focused practice.
- Recruiting judges from outside the college adds credibility to the competition and it reduces the possibility of bias from internal judges.
- Contact judges early to assure their availability.
- It would be recommended to tape the counseling sessions so judges can review the tapes multiple times to ensure objective judging. The tapes should not be compared against other participants, however only to make sure that each student participant identified and addressed judging criteria.
- It is asked that there be no ties. Using three judges and the evaluation form included should allow adequate discrimination among participants.
- The state competition will allow one student to represent their college/campus and present at the IPhA and MPA Annual Conference on September 8, 2017

Since this meeting is so soon after the start of the didactic year, the colleges/schools of pharmacy are permitted to use the top winner from their 2017 APhA local competition to compete at the state competition.
