

Yahoo Emergency Disclosure Request

Please provide complete responses to the questions on this form to assist Yahoo! Inc. ("Yahoo") in determining whether to exercise its discretion to disclose information to you pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2702(b)(8) and/or § 2702(c)(4).

Complete forms may be returned to Yahoo as follows:

During business hours** – Email to legalpoc@yahoo-inc.com

Outside business hours – Email to page-legalpoc@yahoo-inc.com

You may email legalpoc@yahoo-inc.com during business hours, if you have any questions about this form.

Please note that it is Yahoo's policy to explicitly notify users about governmental requests for their information, except when prohibited by law. In exceptional circumstances, such as imminent threats of physical harm to a person, we provide delayed notice. Accordingly, if Yahoo produces any information in response to your emergency disclosure request and you do not subsequently establish a legal prohibition on us providing user notice, we will notify the user(s) of your request and our production of information in response to it. A request from law enforcement to not provide notice to a user is not in itself sufficient to prevent Yahoo from providing such notice. However, the facts of the emergency situation will be relevant to the length of time before notice is given. Specifically, in the case of an emergency disclosure we will not provide notice to an affected user until we, after consultation with government officials, conclude that there is no longer reason to delay notice; in no event will this period be less than ninety (90) days from when the user's information was disclosed.
